What the Present Congress Has Accomplished.

General Legislation of More or Less Value.

Finance, Public Lands, Naturalization and Navigation Touched On.

Millions of Acres of Desert Donated for Irrigation-Oakland, Cal., a Sub-port of Entry-Labor Inquiries.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The last month of the present session of Congress excepting the ten days during which the tariff bill has been in the President's hands, have been fairly productive of general legislation, and there is a short list of bills which have become laws to add to the review of the session's worl previously published through the Asso clated Press. All of the appropriation have now become laws. The General Deficiency and the Sundry Civil bills were both signed late in the session, and the latter measure embraces two important pieces of legislation, the appropriation of $200,000 for a government exhibit at the Cotton States Exposition, to be held at Atlanta, and the cession to each of th arid-land States and the States which may be formed from the Territories, of 1,000,000 acres each of desert lands for reclamation, a plan which is intended to advance the movement for irrigation in the West, and to partially take the place of the scheme for irrigation by the gen eral government, which has been fostered the Western members. The only financial measure which ha been enacted by the Fifty-third Congress, except the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, became a law on Au Representative Cooper of Indiana, to sub-ject to State and municipal taxation the national bank notes and United States treasury notes under the same provision that all gold, silver and other money is taxed. It is left optional with the States, however, to tax those heretofore-exempted forms of money.

Among the sole of the avasion relating to the military no one was more important than the plan fathered by Representative Curtis of Kensucky, which recently became a law, regulating enlist-ments in the regular army upon new principles, the most important of which must be citizens of the United States or have declared their intention to become citizens; they must be able to read, write and speak the English language and be under 35 years of age. To promote the efficiency of the naval militia, a compara-Congress authorized the temporary loan to any State making application for it, of any vessel of the navy which was not fitted for regular service. An act was passed construing the law relating to the retirement and pay of mates in the navy so that the twenty-tight warrant officers, now serving as mates, shall be eligible to the retired list and shall be salaried at $1200 when at sea, and $700 while on leave or waiting orders.

Two important laws relating to the lifesaving service were enacted, one providing the lakes from the opining until the close of navigation, the other extending the benefits of the marine hospitals to the crows of those stations.

On suggestion of the Secretary of the Treasury, the quarantine his were amended to exempt vessels plying between ports of the United States and Canada and Mexico. The act of March 3, 1885, relating to lights on fishing vessels, was continued in force by such enactment, so that it should not be repealed by the recent regulations to prevent collision at sea, which, in some respects, would have overruled it. A revenue cutter was provided for cervice in the harbor of San Francisco; a fog-signal was established at Kewanee, Wis., and range-lights, as well as lightships with fog signals, were ced in Boston Harbor.

The city of Oakland, Cal., was made a sub-port of entry, and an American regis-ter was provided for the steamers Sotorie, Goldaworthy and Oceanic, and the schooner barge Astoria. The law relating to barra-try on the high seas was so amended as to make imprisonment for life or for a term of years the punishment in certain cases.

The most important acts emanating from the Committee on Judiciary were: An act for the protection of persons furnishing materials and labor for the construction of public works by allowing them to bring suit against contractors in the name of the government; an act permitting certain classes of corporations to furnish bonds for government officials; one fixing the time for holding Federal Court sessions in Nebraska, and an act amending the funding for holding Federal Court sossins in Nebraska, and an act amending the funding act of Arizona.

On recommendation of the Ways and Meaus Committee, the articles of foreign exhibitors at the Tacoma Interstate Fair were exempted from the payment of dutles. An act was passed extending from four to five years the limit of time within which final proof may be made by settlers who have declared their intention of taking up desert lands. Another law in the interest of Western settlers was one enabling those who desire to locate on other than mineral lands to secure a survey by depositing with the government a sum sufficient to cover the cost of survey. Affidavits in land entry cases made before United States commissioners, instead of a United States commissioner, instead of a United States commissioner, as provided by law, were made valid by a special emactment. Other legislation of importance relating to public lands includes an act to enable the State of Montana to select as part of the land granted to her on becoming a State any of the lands in the Bitter Root Valley, above the lower fork of the Bitter Root River; an act extending the payment to the purchasers of lands of the Omaha tribe of Indians in Nebraska to period of ten years twenty-acre tracts in the Yellowstone Park for hotel purposes, and an act for the resurvey of Grant and Hooker counties, in Nebraska.

and an act for the resurvey of Grant and Hooker counties, in Nebraska.

Two more important investigations desired by the House Committee of Labor have been authorized. One is for an investigation into the effects of machinery on labor, with reference to its productive power and effect upon wages, hours of work and employment of women and children; the second for an investigation of the extent of the employment of women and children, and the conditions under which they work. Both inquiries will be conducted by the Commissioner of Labor.

In addition there were a few laws of minor importance, relating to the District of Columbia enacted.

THAT BILL.

Senator Jones of Arkansas Gives Its

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—In a special to the Republic from Little Rock, Ark., Senator Jones gives a history of the recent Tariff Bill contest. The Senator, it will be remembered, was a member of the ub-committee to which the bill was first referred In his statement Mr. Jones says in part:
"The bill, as first reported back to the committee by us, may be considered as an expression of the opinions of our subcommittee, unmodified by the views of our associates in the Series. nittee, unmodified b

"While a large majority of the Demo-crats in the Senate were perfectly satisfled with this bill, a number complained of different parts of it, and in an effort fo harmony we presented another. While there are changes in a number of the schedules of more or less importance, this econd report of ours provided also for free sugar, free coal and free iron ore.'

The Snator relates the persistent demands of the Senators representing the sugar interests, and the members of the sub-committee, with great rejuctance and regret, submitted a further change in the bill, imposing a tariff ranging from eight-tenths of a cent to 1 cent per pound (n all sugar, with no additional tax on refined sugar, proposing a tax of 5 cents per ton on coal, and iron ore free, hoping thereby re united Democratic action. At the caucus of Democratic Senstors which lasted three days, the Senators from Louisiana and California, especially Sen-ator White, spoke against the bill. At the ugar refineries were located declared that they could not support the bill without some tariff on refined sugar as there was a tariff on the raw. The result of that protracted and stormy caucus was the adoption of a resolution sending the bill back to the committee with instructions to amend it so as to meet the differences which had been developed in caucus. He says: "In obedience to this action of the caucus, which was really equivalent to an order to fax sugar, coal and iron ore, we bryught in a bill with a tax of 1 cent per pound on sugar testing 80 deg. by the dariscope, and I cent additional for degree up to 90, and 2.1 cents for each de-gree above 90 and up to 98, and upon sugar bove 16 deg., Dutch standard in color, an additional tax of one-eighth of 1 cent iron ore 40 cents per ton, the bill was sent to the Senate on March 17. The wident that the bill would be defeated if insisted upon.

if there were not some means of saving the bill. Senator Hill, one of the forty-four Democrats in the Senate, was openly nostile to the bill. To pass the bill would require tonty-three votes, hence it was necessary that every one of the remaining forty-three votes be secured for the sup port of the bill. Several of these had already openly declared that they could not and would not vote for the bill as renorted, and it was decided to amend it so as to secure their support. These modi-fications involved changes of the sugar schedule from a specific to an ad valorem duty, the imposition of an additional tax of one-tenth of 1 cent per pound upon all coasts shall be manned from the 1st of sugars imported from countries paying August to the 1st of June, and those of bounties, and that the bill should not become operative until the first day of January, 1895; taxes on iron and ore at 40 cents per ton, and changes in the textile and other schedules of more or less importance.

Before the amended bill was reported back to the committee, Senator Jon he consulted with President Cleveland, Secretary Carlisle and members of the Finance Committee, explaining the necessity for making the changes mentioned. They all agreed as to the advisability of They all agreed as to the advisability of doing so, and a caucus of Democratic Senators decided to support the bill as amended. "From May 1st," he says, when the amendments were offered, to July 3d, when the bill finally passed the Senate, the forty-three Democrats stood together like a stone wall, and redeemed their pledges like men with but a single break. There are many things in the bill not satisfactory to me. Had I my own way I would nave raised the revenue needed from incomes, whisky, beer and tobacco and not from sugar or from woolen goods and then imposing a tax on sugar I would not have imposed any extra tax on refined Fears for the Safety of Two Parties of American Tourists Now Missing.

Towns Overturned, the Country Ray aged and Fishing-boats Sunk-Passenger Steamers Have Not Arrived in Port.

ssociated Press Leased-wire Service.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.-A special cable to the Globe-Democrat from St. Petersburg says that words cannot describe the wind that swept across the sea of Azof yesterday. It is impossible for days yet to compute the damage done, but it is almost cer tain that 1000 have perished, some by drowning, others by being crushed under falling houses. The excitement is great among the American colony in this city, for it is feared that at least two parties o at the time the wind did its deadly work. All the afternoon there has been a string of sailors at the American Ministry asking, almost begging for news from Odessa, whence the tourists were to have started on the regulation sight-seeing trip across the Crimea, visiting Sebastopol Balaklava and the other famous battle scenes. The parties were separate, but it is probable they started within twelve hours of each other and, according to the schedule of these excursions, they would have reached the Straits of Kertch yesterday morning, going thence by steamboa north to Berdiansk, where they would take a train back to Odessa.

It is said the leader of one of thes parties had proposed a trip a short distance north from Temrink into the lake of the Black Cossacks. If this party branched off into that way they have unquestionably perished, for the storm raged along almost the entire east coast of the State. It is hoped that some lucky chance delayed the

At a late hour there was still only a general report of the disaster on which to base surmises of the Americans' safety The report recounts wide havoc. The wind was first felt at Nogaisk, which place is recorded mostly by fishermen, who were out on the water. When the hurricane had swept out to the north, a terrible scens was presented. The village was razed overturned, as if an immense plow had een pushed through it. Lying everywher last agonies. The shallow waters of the Sea of Azof were lashed into such a height that it was plain that every fishingboar must have been sunk. The cyclone swept on to the northwest after wrecking

Nogaisk.

Its path seemed to have been unusually wide, for at Marinopol it devastated the country to a point eleven miles inland, and had its outer edge far upon the sea. Marinopol was practically blotted out of existence. Not three houses in a hundred three hundred persons perished in this place alone. North of here the cyclone made a sudden turn to the east, over Dolga Points. Its left edge inflicte slight damage to the town of Berdimsk. Houses were unroofed and a dozen per Of the steamers that touch at the port of Berdimsk, not one had come in at the hour of the latest report. Grave fears are expressed that every craft on the sea has gone to the bottom, and that every passenger is drowned. When the wind swept over the northern end of Azof it took a new course, going southerly along the coast of the land of the Black Cossacks. Turneisk and Achuev were ravaged, each town being almost totally destroyed. Telegraphic communication with this district is suspended, and it impossible to learn the extent of the destruction, but at least one thousand persons must have died on the two shores. The storm, as nearly as can now he learned seemed to suddenly lose its force near Temerink, and passed off with comparative quiet southward, over the SIMLA (India,) Aug. 26.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Gohns Lake, which has for some time past been threatening to break its banks and sweep down the valley at the head of which it lies, has broken the damwhich controlled the waters. of tons of water poured through the valley like a cataract, sweeping everything be-fore it. Huge boulders were swept down like pebbles, trees were uprooted and car-ried on the crest of the flood, and villages along the valley were swept out of exist ence in an instant after the roaring terrent of whirling waters struck them.

The rainfall during the monsoon

The rainfall during the monsoon has been noticeably heavy, and the lake rose with great rapidity. The percolation at the dam became very heavy, and the engithe dam became very heavy, and the engineers who examined it decided that its breakage was imminent. To repair it was impossible, and the government at once took steps to prevent loss of life when the break came. Elaborate railroad and telebreak came. Elaborate railroad and telegraphic arrangements were made, and when it became known that the dam would go out, the people nearest the point of danger were carried by the railroad to places of safety, while those further down the valley were notified to pack up their belongings and be prepared to leave their homes when called upon by the government to do so.

The call was soon issued, and the people were taken away. So when the flood really came the valley was deserted by everybody. To this wise forethought of the government is due the fact that great loss of life was averted break came.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer La Normandie was the Hon. Levi P. Morton, who was seen on the promenade deck of the steamer shortly after she dropped anchor in quarantine. He evidently anticipated the reporters' questions, as the following note which he handed to those who greated thim will show:

"In reply to your questions I can only say that, although I have no desire to re-enter public life, I have received so many letters from my personal and political friends in different parts of the State urging me to allow the use of my name as a candidate for Governor, now that I am at home I shall feel it due them and the Republican party, which has so highly nored me in the past, to give the question serious consideration.

He thought his position would protect him from arrest, but Nicaragua had never recognized him officially, nor granted him an exequator. AMERICAN POLICY. NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A special from Washington says that definite information

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A special from Washington says that definite information concerning the Nicaraguan-policy of the administration was obtained from an official source today. For some time there has been much speculating on the subject, and recent advices from Bluefields and the present mission to London of Gen. Barrios, the Nicaraguan special commissioner, have aroused fresh interest here.

Briefly expressed, the recognition of the complete sovereignity of Nicaragua in the Mosquito reservation as the policy which has been agreed upon. Neither Chief Clarence nor his successor in any event is regarded as having any authority or rights separate from or independent of national control. Nicaragua is considered the only treaty power and the sole source of government. With her all relations concerning American interests in the reservation are to be had and Clarence and his advisers are to be treated as purely local authorities, subordinate to and under the constant restriction of Nicaragua in all constant restriction of Nicaragua in all matters.

For acts of omission or commission with respect to Americans, Nicaragua is to be held responsible. Contracts and concessions now in force with Americans in the reservation are to be upheld and the hational government is expected to respect the same and to take such steps as may be necessary to their maintenance. To the greatest extent consistent with international countesy, Nicaragua is to be required to sanction by law or proclamation the freedom of religion which now obtains in the reservation. An effort will be made also to induce Nicaragua to give a guarantee that excessive or unusual taxes will not be levied.

With relation to the grants and concessions now held by Americans in the reservation, Nicaragua has been informed that this country regards them as binding on the national government. They are considered in each instance as a contract, so to speak, voidable, but not yold, under the arrangement. They are to be kept in force, except when, by mutual agreement, they become no longer operative. Whenever, for any reason, a concession is withdrawn by Nicaragua without the consent of the party holding the grant, a suitable indemnity is to be provided. On this point, the United States is said to be firm, and should cases arise where injustice is done to Americans on the reservations, vigorous demands are to be made on Nicaragua to right the wrong.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The transfor nation of the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius into a torpedo-boat, which was delayed in order to profit by the experiments now making with the dynamite guns at Sandy Hook, will at once proceed according to the original plan. Capt. able for use on ships.

The drawbacks to such are the great weight of the guns and compressors and the valuable space occupied, the short range of the weapons, and the impossi-bility of aiming them without turning the whole ship. Besides, the Ordnance Eureau has been meeting with great success in its efforts to develop the use of high-ex-plosive shells in ordinary rifled guns. It at a speed of 1400 feet per second, over a distance of four miles, and if the 12-inch rife performs as well with a 200-pound charge of dynamite, and its superior accuracy and long range, it will be much ore efficient for ship use than any other

Crime has apparently become a pastime with him and he is supposed to have found an apt pupil in Lake, a poor, unemployed laborer. During the daytime Griswold filled the important position of fire-risk inspector, which he used as a cloak for his marauding expeditions during the night.

About five years ago Griswold married a country girl, and she became Mrs. Gordon, not Griswold. Since then they have lived in various marts of Chicago, their

The story of Griswold's life, so far as known, is unique. Born almost twenty-eight years age, his father tried to give him a fair education, but the boy's instincts were wild and lawless. He eventually disappeared from home and was next heard of, in the West as a cowboy and ranchman. After several years of adventurous life in California, Oregon and idaho, he came to Illinois and secured employment as a brakeman at Rock Island, Ill. While there he married, and the influence of his wife caused him to lead-a quieter life. His father, noting an improvement in his behavior, used his influence to obtain his son a position in the local office of the Manchester Assurance Company. DR. M'GLYNN.

He Explains Mgr. Satolli's Attitude Toward Saloons.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Fitteen bundred persons assembled at Probibition Park, Staten Island, today to hear Rev. Dr. Mc-overestimated, and it was also asked if a single representative Catholic could be named who was opposed to the saloon.

In introducing Dr. McGlynn, the utterances of Archobiatop Ireland, Bishop McCaud of Verment, Bishop Missner of Wisconsin and Bishop McGerrick of Michigan were read endorsing Satolit's question. Dr. McGlynn said there was a danger in magnifying Mgr. Satolit's letter beyond the intention of the writer and beyond its real effect. It was not a decree. Mgr. Satolit was not here to make laws. Mgr. Satolit hardly meant and Bishop Watterson hardly meant that it was a sin to drink intoxicating ilquors or to sell them. They have not gone so far as that. In effect the letter meant that Catholics should look to it that their churches, families and business should be so conducted as to be no occasion of sin or scandal.

The letter of the apostolic delegate had no more force than the order of the Bishop of Columbus, but it did not require great perception to unlerstand how far-reaching would be its effect. The letter plainly insinuates that if each bishop in the United States should issue the zame orders as had been issued by Bishop Watterson and Mgr. Satolii should be appealed to for a reversal of that order that he would give the same answer.

It would have no effect in encouraging versal of that order that he would give the same answer.

Knights of Pythias Encounter s Thunder Shower. Associated Press Leased-wire Service. WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—An unwel-

White City of tents around the Washington monument this afternoon. It came in the form of a thunder shower, which swept over the city almost without warning, and then settled into a steady rain until sunset. Several tents were dismantled by the sheets of rain, which beat around them, and the lightning was unpleasantly sharp. All of the discomforts incidental to the storm were accepted in a hilarious mood by the Kulgits, however, and they made fun under the canvas, as well as outside, after the first drenching rain had passed over.

Fine discipline was maintained in the encampment, something like martial regulations being enforced. Three thousand men sleep on light cots under canvas tonight, while uniforms are the rule rather than the exception, on the streets. The most heavily gilt-laced of the regalis was to be found at the Ebblit House, where headquarters have been established by Maj.-Gen. Carnahan, where the citizens committeemen also congregate and where every stranger is greeted by his acquaintances with an official title.

LONDON MARKETS.

Wheat in Demand-Other Cereals

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(By Atlantic Cable.) LONDON, Aug. 26.—(By Atlantic Cable.)
The weather has been excessively wet and has done damage to the crops, but it had but a small effect upon the market. Wheat

Flour war dull. Sellors were plentiful, but buyers were scarce. Maise was firm and slow. The prospects of a short crop had little effect at present. American maize was not offered. Barley was steady and slow, with full supply. Oats were freely offered, but found slow sale. MONEY AND STOCKS.

The silver market fluctuated, as it was thought the chances of the war in the East would create a deriand. American holders took full advantage of this speculative rise. The stock exchange market continued strong, considering the small trade of the holiday season. The strength of American securities helped to support the other speculative markets.

German convols were in great request for investment. There were sharp changes in Mexicans which, after touching 65, were freely offered from Germany on rumors of a contemplated reduction in the rest. With the exception of Lake Shore, which advanced 6, the rise in American railroad securities was less marked than it was less was less marked than it was last week, owing to the considerable realizations. Northern Pacific rose 1 per cent., other changes were fractional. Canadian Pacific was down 1½.

VENTURA, Aug. 26.—(Special Dispatch.)
Frank E. Taylor, a young man well-known in this city, was drowned this afternoon while bathing in the ocean.

He, together with saveral companions, had gone out beyond the breakers, and while returning young Taylor became exhausted and sank before help could reach him. Those who saw the accident state that the water was not of sufficient depth to have covered him could he have stood up, but owing to the strong undertow and very heavy breakers it was impossible to stand even in only three or four feet of water. Taylor realized his condition, and called to his companions several times, saying. "I am going to drown! Help me!" But they were unable to give him aid before the sea claimed him.

A search was at once commenced for his body, but at this writing it has not been recovered. Mr. Taylor was a member of Olive Encampment No. 201 I.O.O.F.

A Unique Quilt.

A Unique Quilt.

(St. Louis Republic:) A quilt made of aatin printed play bills is the unique possession of Mrs. W. G. Jones, an old-time actress.

Thy quilt is composed wholly of play bills, which have been printed on satin for souvenir occasions. There are pleces of plain slik embroidered with the usual designs—butterflies, horseshoes, etc.—but the beauty apots of the quilt are the play bills. Another interesting feature is that the quilt is lined with the damask crimson satin which once formed the curtain of the old Bowery Theater. When the new Bowery was built most of the furnishings of the old Bowery were sold.

Bowery Theater. When the new Bowery was built most of the furnishings of the old Bowery were sold.

Mrs. Jones bought the curtains and putthem to their present use.

The quilt was mostly made "on the road," for Mrs. Jones did a great deal of traveling when acting. "I always worked when waiting in the greenroom for my cue," she said, referring to the work. The quilt was begun in Kannas City in 1831.

One of the choicest bits is the playbiti from the Boston Bijou Theater. The occasion was the "gala opening of the theater in 1832." A "Paul Kauvar" souvenir on yellow allk gives a representation of the dream or guillotine scene and is very pretty. Pink lettering on white actin was the souvenir of an occasion when Emma Abbott gave the "Bohemian Girl." Another is embellished with photographs of Mrs. John Drew and of Joseph Jefferson as Bob Acres.

Protecting the President.

(New York Herald.) The most minute precautions are taken for the protection of the new President of the Prench republic. There is not in Europe a sovereign guarded better than M. Casimir-Perier. A flying brigado of police agents in civilian costume has been created to follow the President step by step wherever he goes. When M. Casimir-Perier is about to stark from the Elysse the Prefecture of Police is apprised by telephone of the place to which he is going, as well as the route he is to take. Before he has crossed the gate of the palace a carriage is already on the sirrest, with orders to follow the Presidential conveyance, and not to lose sight of it. This maneuver is repeated several times daily, for the President goes out frequently, either in a carriage or on foot. M. Casimir-Perier citen goes to she

A gentleman residing on Boyle Heights, who went to Texas yesterday on business of importance, asked a friend with whom erview was protracted, and it was late, leave by the 8:30 a. m. Sunset train the following morning he requested his friend if not altogether inconvenient, to accept of his hospitality for the night, so that they could go to the Arcade depot to gether the next morning, and recapitulate the points which made the trip necessary, before the cars left for Arizona and shown a very comfortable room in the second story of the Boyle Heights man-sjon. His slumbers would have been un-disturbed but for a colony of mosquitoe little swamp just below First street And, by the way, why that slough o spand and mosquitoes is allowed to exist is a very fair question.

It might have been about 12:36 when the uneasy slumbers of the guest were changed to a very decided state of alertthe uneasy slumbers of the guest were changed to a very decided state of alertness by hearing noises in a not distant part of the house devoted to the duty of a storeroom. Sounds as if some one of something was dragging a chair over the floor, and the nearness to the midnight hour suggested a spook. Common sense, however, gave preference to burglarious enterprise. The guest was unarmed, but on looking through a chest of drawers, discovered a revolver, which unfortunately or rather more to the point, fortunately or rather more to the point, fortunately was not loaded. Still it was somethin which in a case of emergency might overawe a burglar, and in the case of a spook specter or ghost, whether loaded or unloaded, it cut no figure in the developments that were possible. Everything considered he concluded that discretion, when accompanied by an unloaded revolver, was the better part of valor, and he lit cigarette as well as a candle, and all this time the gruesome dragging of the chair seemed to increase in intensity.

"After waiting a little he heard smothered steps on the stairs, accompanied by sundry elements, which pro-

After waiting a little he heard smothered steps on the stairs, accompanied by sundry exclamations and grunts, which proclaimed that the French gardener of the household had also noticed the disturbance, and was out on a voyage of inquisition. Soon the door of the garret opened, and the gardener disappeared within the purilipus of the storeroom. The "sacres" and "scrongnongnieus" became voluble and vociferous, but at least ten minutes elapsed before the gardener emerged from the storeroom. In the meanwhile the spooky sounds had subsided.

Beset by curiosity, the guest at this juncture opened his door and beheld the French gardener with a candle in one hand and a gunny sack in the other, just in front of it. It was not the sight of the gunny sack which paralyzed the guest and heavily caused him to fell the treatment he mearly caused him to fail to the ground, but something far more potent.

"For heaven's sake, man, what have you got in that sack?" he inquired.

"Monsieur," replied the honest gardener, whose olfactory nerves seemed as impervious to smell as his knowledge, of natural history was limited, "eet ees one white cat, chat blane, or one leetle black dog, chien noir, yass. However, the door of the balcony opened with difficulty, and it was only after the skunk had played his offensive battery with deadly effect and changed the atmosphere of the hall to one which would be fit for hades, that a dull, but satisfactory thud preclaimed that he had reached the pavement in front of the house.

factory thud proclaimed that he had reached the pavement in front of the house.

No further explanations were accepted from the gardener, who had acquired some of the mephitic-perfume during the protracted sentile with the polecat, and he was chased away to a place far out of reach of the noses of those who had the misfortune to witness his battle with the gunny sack and the balcony door. In the morning it dawned upon the gardener that he was somewhat behind the times as regards zooley and the sense of smell. So, he came forward proudly, and, pointing out the place where he had dropped the skunk during the night, he said: "Ah, monseiur, here is zee place I knock dawn le polite cat, and I wist go down on my knees to make one smell, and by gar! THE UNEMPLOYED AND GOOD

The depression which prevails at present throughout the country, and which is especially hard on the poor, whom we now have with us, has set a good many public-spirited and humane Americans to thinking about the best method of relieving some of this distress. There are two ways of relleving the poor and destitute. One to give outright, in the shape of charity. This is the wrong way. The other is to furnish employment, and to work to help themselves. This is the right way, and that fact is now erally admitted, so that the quesn resolves itself into one as to how we can best furnish employment for usual depression. A dispatch from Cincinnati announces that a number of prominent persons there propose to $50,000 by subscription. Having this, they will secure several of the big hills about the city whose owners are unable to or are in no irry to grade down. The macadam and and gravel will be for sale, the receipts from this source being added the original amount. The Mayor and Board of Public Affairs regard the plan as perfectly feasible.

A movement is also on foot in Ohio to have a special session of the Legislature pass a bill authorizing citto issue bonds for public improvents, so that the unemployed may have work. For a year past, or ever since the present business trouble ing that the proper way to assist the mployed was to undertake every kind of public and private improvenent that would soon have to be done any case. If some such course as this had been followed throughout the United States, it is probable that we should have avoided many of the recent labor troubles that have afflicted us. Instead of this, men of means were contemplating improveents have kept their money locked up in the banks, waiting to see what would turn up, and of course as long as no capital was invested in enterrises, nothing did turn up, except eform is to reform. The way to nake better times is to pitch in and expend money, thus setting the wheels commerce revolving again. If citand countles, and States would start the ball rolling in this direction. re is no doubt that a great many pitalists would follow with the imvements of a private character.

Among the enterprises of this nawhich have been suggested for section is a thorough and systenatic improvement of the roads of os Angeles county, a work which is ch needed and which would unoubtedly repay the county for the ount expended within a very few The Chamber of Commerce ok the matter up, and has done that it could to bring the question o a focus, but to the surprise of most ole a considerable amount of oposition has been encountered among le who do not appear to be able give any particular reason for such position, except that they are "for-inst" the spending of money by the aty for public improvements at ent. Others seem to have an idea this is a scheme for Los Angeles to enrich itself at the expense of ounty, although how such an ould have originated is a mysto the average citizen, for the ections would certainly be greater gainers by this imthan the city.

Enteredat the Los Angeles Postoffice for transmission as second-class mail matter ing on employ a large number of people, so that we do not feel the depression to anything like the same extent that it is felt in other cities. At the same time, there are quite a number of worthy men in this section who are not working and are willing to work at a very moderate remuneration. Also it is admitted by a great majority of our citizens that the improvement of our country roads is a very necessary and desirable undertaking It has been estimated that the amount which is now expended in keeping our miserable dirt roads in half-way passable condition would be sufficient to pay the interest and principal on bonds that would be issued for this purpose. Before this question is aleffort should be made to put the enterprise through. In the case of a city with less brilliant prospects than Los Angeles there might be some excuse for hesitation on part of the tax payers, but surely there is none here Everything points to the fact that we are on the verge of something that will much resemble a boom. There will be thousands of new-comers from the East during the winter. Let us go to work and show these people that we have confidence in ourselves, and in the future of the city. Los Angeles county cannot afford to take a back seat when it comes to the question of public improvements, especially when those improvements are of sheep-raising and wool-growing is doomed in Southern California. The men engaged in that pursuit have been subjected to many annoyances within the last few years, not merely by private individuals, but also by county assessors, who have thought proper to levy tax, be it justly or unfairly, whenever sheep-raisers and their flocks have passed the imaginary line which divides one political subdivision in the State from another. Men who have paid taxes on sheep in one county, object to paying them again, when by the force of circumstances, principally superinduced by lack of feed, they are driven to the necessity of taking their flocks into neighboring counties. When they do this it is naturally to keep their animals alive and to avert financial wreck. They not only resent the action of assessors in such case, because it is unjust, but because of the impossiliability of raising the money neces sary for double taxation. Even when the flock-master is successful in the mmenced, The Times has been urg- courts, lawyers' fees and other costs pitiable state of things at Pullman, will seriously curtail his profits when he comes to sell his mutton and his wool. When to such unexpected outlays are added the excessive charges made by land-owners for the rents of sheep pastures which cannot sup ply feed all the year round, the problem of raising meat and wool for a living becomes more and more difficult. Furthermore, the available pas tures of Southern California being devoid of nutriment for the sheep during several months in the year, flockowners find it imperative to purchase the right to let their sheep run over barley and wheat fields after the crops isery and stagnation. The way to have been gathered, in order that they may obtain sustenance from the stub ble that remains on the ground. This is another heavy outlay, and ranchowners are never slow in exacting the highest rates, per capita, obtainable. In the end, the sheep-raiser finds that he is engaged in a losing business, which he must quit or go

> True, he has the remedy of seeking pastures new, and that is just what he is doing now. Trustworthy reports from the San Joaquin region, below Santa Ana, and other points in Southern California, are to the effect that sheep-men will be on the wrong side of the ledger this season, as they have been before within two or three years, and that nothing but new fields in other sections of the union will save them. A vigorous effort has been inaugurated by a Los Angeles syndicate to find virgin lands for its flocks. A prominent sheep-raiser left yesterday for Texas to investigate some 70,000 acres in the vicinity of San Angelo, which are considered as suitable and available for sheep-raising. Other men are studying the advisability of inguiring into the fitness of Southern Arizona. from the Patagonia Mountains to the San Luis Range, for similar purposes. The edict condemns the Chinese officers responsible for the conduct of the troops, and orders that the actual murderers be beheaded. It is further ordered that the chapels destroyed be rebuilt at the ex-pense of the people in the localities where the outrages were committed, and that compensation be paid the relatives of Wyfie. The Supreme Council and Vice-roy Li Hung Chang have expressed deep regret to the British Minister on account f the outrage.

FIELD OF POLITICS.

Preparing for the Republican Cau

cuses—The Democracy.
The Republican caucuses tomorrow ise to be decidedly interesting. The can-didates realize /that there is where the battle is really won, and they have been ists at Pullman."

That journal continues:

"But the unfortunate victims of the strike again are presented as dupes of very ignorant or very heartless agitators. The charitable, from the first, have been willing to feed the hungry, but efforts were stayed by utterances from the leaders of the strike. The people were told that the funds of the American Railway Union and of other labor organizations were at the disposal of the strikers, and that they were ample for the maintenance of the strikers for months—nay, it was even said during years—of resistance. The people were told that the strikers would win because all labor organizations were supporting them, and naturally the people at large lost interest in the matter. But now that the leaders of the strike have pushed the strikers to an extremity, they admit their inability to help them. The guilt or ignorance of the "leaders of 18bor," who made such false representations to men and women as to lead them into a prolonged and useless strike, is simply appailing. Mr. Heathcote, Mr. Debs, Mr. Howard, all the men whose false promises and false representations of the amount of aid to be expected by the Pullman strikers have induced such vast misery as now is said to pervade Pullman, should hasten into the uttermost obscurity.

"Nor are the appeals for aid well made. Neither the Governor nor the Mayor has power to appropriate a penny from the public funds in aid of the peor, at Pullman or at any other place. It would be an evil precedent were public funds to be appropriated for the relief of men whose destitution is the result of refusal to work when work, though it may be at insufficient wages, was available. Public charities are to-be administered only in aid of those who cannot work, either by reason of bodily infirmity or because of inability to procure work.

"The appeal should be made to the charity of the people. It will not be withheld working like beavers getting their fences in shape. After the caucuses, the prima-ries will be fought out, and then the final

THE DEMOCRACY.

The local Democracy have not yet realized just "where they are at" on the Budd proposition, but they are finding out. Mr. Jeter, the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, is ex-Mayor of Santa Cruz, and was in office when the convention which nominated Lindley for Congress was held in that city. As Mr. Jeter lives in the Sixth Congress District, he is probably credited to Southern California—at least that is the supposition.

MONROVIA REPUBLICANS. MONROVIA, Aug. 25.—(Special Correspondence.) The Monrovia Republican Club was favored by the presence of three speakers Friday evening—Lou Fairchild of Los Angeles, L. G. Woodward first addressed the club, stating that he had been a Republican ever since the organization of the party, and had voted for every ticket, and that he firmly believed that the present distress of our country can only be relieved by Republican control of the government.

Mr. Brown was then introduced, and briefly sketched the prosperous state of all our manufactures prior to 1884, when, by a fraudulent vote in New York, the Democratic gave us Grover Cleveland for President. Mr. Brown discussed the tariff at some length, and said that the Democratic party resembled a graveyard, with the party resembled a graveyard, with the names of our various industries inscribed names of our various industries inscribed on the tombstones.

Lee Fairchild was presented as a wit, and he well sustained the reputation. Mr. Fairchild seemed to delight in holding the Populist party and measures up to ridicule, and in the midst of his humor he made some telling points. His address was punctuated by repeated laughter and appliance.

PASADENA CANDIDATES FOR THE

PASADENA, Aug. 25.—(To the Editor of The Times:) The present political fight in Pasadena between the two aspirants for the Superior Judgeship, and their respective friends, is enough to disgust all decent Re-publicans. Each clan is assuming to em-brace and represent the high moral ele-ments of the party, while they charge the other fellows with being corrupt, resorting to tricks and doing all sorts of hard things. things.
One faction, headed by its leader, a can-

One faction, headed by its leader, a candidate for the honorable office that ought to be entirely alouf from partisan politics, has held its secret caucuses, and has designated and published its list of candidates for delegates to the county convention, but no name has been put on this list who is not known to be in favor of that particular candidate in preference to all others. The other faction, headed by its leader, a candidate for the same high position, has been holding its caucuses, and has fixed up its list of delegates, and no name is on that list who has not been interviewed and given satisfactory assurances that he will work for the nomination of that particular candidate. This faction, a little more subtle than the viber, ination of that particular candidate. This faction, a little more subtle than the ether, will soon hold a so-cailed public caucus, in which they know the supporters of the other candidate will go through the farce of nominating the ticket for delegates which they have already cut and drief. The supreme qualifications required of the persons whose names are placed on either of these lists, is an affirmative answer to the question, "Will you aupport our candidate for Judge?" A negative or a doubtful answer on this point, regardless of the other qualifications of the person to represent the party in the convention, is a sufficient reason for his rejection.

And the two candidates in Passadema for Superior Judge are lending their countermance, and, in fact, leading this factional and purely personal warfare. Whatever the qualifications of either of these candidates for the Superior Judgeship, the methods that they are using or allowing to be used to promote their candidacy, are to be used to promote their candidacy unworthy of one who aspires to that orable position. Will the time never when the office, and especially the when the office, and especially the office of Judge, will seek the man, and not the man force himself into the office? There are a few Republicans yet in Pasadena whare not "in the ring," nor is the "ring their noses."

Sad Condition of Affairs in Iowa and Nebraska.

Nebraska.

A prominent resident of Santa Ana, Orange county, has just received a letter from a friend in Council Bluffs, Iowa, in which the existing condition of affairs in that locality is shown up in anything but a creditable manner. From the letter the following extracts are taken:

"The dust has been from four to six inches deep on our roads through Iowa and Nebraska for the past sixty days. For thirty-three days we have not had any rain, and for the first time ever known, we will have almost a complete crop failure. Oats was about one-half a crop, and very short, making it hard to harvest, and selling for 40 cents per bushel. In sections of Iowa farmers are cutting off their corn, as it has been so dry, and very hot winds, that the corn dried, and hundreds of acres will not yield two bushels to the acre. This product is now selling at 60 cents per bushel, with fair prospects of going to 31.

"Hay is a complete failure in Central and Western Iowa and Eastern Nebraska, selling at $12.50 per ton. Many of the farmers are killing their hogs and burying them, as they have nothing to feed them. Cattle are being shipped to market so poor they can scarcely stand up in the car. Think of the poor, tough beefsteak we shall have to digest this winter.

His Congregation. Resolutions Adopted After the Serv ices Yesterday Regarding His Suit.

Interesting Exercises at Simpson Tabernacle—Address by Staff Capt. Cox of the Salvation

At the First Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday morning there was a large congregation, as it was understood that action would be taken by the congregation in the matter of the suit brought by the public librarian against the pastor, Rev. J. W. Campbell, for slander. At the conclusion of the services the following resolutions were adopted by a

At the conclusion of the services the following resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote:

"Whereas, a complaint has been filed in the Superior Court of Los Angeles county by Miss Tessa L. Kelso, against our beloved pastor, Rev. J. W. Campbell, charging him with slanderous utterances, made at the regular Sunday services, held in in our church on August 19, 1894, against and in respect to Miss Kelso, as the librarian of the Los Angeles City Public Library; and, whereas, it is further charged in said complaint that it is the rule and practice of our church to hold that whenever a person is prayed for the congregation understand it to be a charge made by such person praying, against the moral character of the person prayed to, and that on said occasion our pastor did use the words in his prayer: 'O Lord, vouchsafe Thy saving grace to the librarian of the Los Angeles City Library,' and that the meaning and purpose of said words were to impugn the moral character of Miss Kelso, and that the same was so understood by said congregation; now, therefore, be it "Resolved, that this congregation explicitly denies that there is any such rule or practice of our church as the one above alluded to, nor is any such inference designed or expected to follow from the mention of an individual name in any of the prayers of our church, and we further deny that any such inference was or could have been drawn by the congregation from any words or expressions made by our pastor on the occasion referred to, either in his prayer or public discourse, or at any other time or place.

"Resolved, that it was and is the general sense of the congregation present on the said occasion that our pastor, in all their he had not was said in relation to reserved to, either in ms prayer or public discourse, or at any other time or place. "Resolved, that it was and is the general sense of the congregation present on the said occasion that our pastor, in all that he in any way said in relation to the Public Library, was that the greatest care abould be exercised against the introduction of immoral publications into the library, and because it would necessarily endanger the moral purity and welfare of young and old, and exert such a corrupting influence upon the public, it was the fluty of the church and our pastor, as its representative, to make plain and earnest protest against at least the negligence that had allowed such a book to be placed on the shelves.

"Resolved, that we approve of the purpose and utterance of our pastor on the occasion referred to, and, while we deprecate the course pursued by Miss Kelso in thus arraigning our pastor upon a groundless charge, yet, inspired by our sense of duty and care for our church and our pastor, and, recognizing that in all his ministrations as servant of the Most High, and especially during the years he has been the pastor of our church, he has ever maintained, in every relation of life, both public and private, a character above reproach; that he has ever been luyst faithful, deep and broad in his sympathies, firm in his principles, public spirited, having a lofty idea of Christian life in layman and minister, he has ever been loyal to the principles of our church, which is love to all and malice toward none. And, as on this occasion he did not, so on no other during all his connection with this church has he ever uttered a slanderous syllable, because we do not believe him capable of sianderous themselves.

do not believe him capable of standerous thoughts against any individual.

"Resolved, that we tender to our beloved pastor our united sympathy and support in this unwarranted attack upon him; that we will stay his heart with our prayers, and his hands with all the material aid that may be required for the most thorough and complete defense against this charge, and all therein or thereby involved."

A large and interested congregation gathered at the Seventh-day Adventist tent on the corner of Fourth and Hill streets Saturday night to listen to Elder Knox on the subject of "Sabbath Reform." The speaker said in substance: The work of Sabbath reform to be accomplished in the last days is foretold in the prophecy of Isafah: "Thus saith the Lord, keep ye judgment and do justice, for My salvation is near to come and My righteousness to be revealed. Blessed is the man that doeth this and the son of man that layeth hold on it; that krepeth the Sabbath from polluting it and keepeth his hand from doing any evil." "The sons of the stranger—every one that keepeth the Sabbath from polluting it—even them will I bring to My holy mountain and make them joyful in My house of prayer," Isafah ivi:1,2,6,7.

These words apply to the Christian age, as is shown by the context: "The Lord God which gathered the outcasts of Israel saith, 'Yet will I gather others to Him, besid's those that are gathered unto Him." Isafah dvi.8. Here is foreshadowed the stablents in of the Gentlieb by the west

Isaiah ivi.8. Here is foreshadowed the gathering in of the Gentiles by the gospel, ascension of Christ, to the time when His servants should preach the glad tidings to all nations.

The Lord commands by the same prophet: "Bind up the testimony, seaf the law among My disciples," Isrlah vill, 16. The seal of God's law is found in the fourth commandment. This only, of all the ten, brings to view both the name and the title of the lawgiver. It declares Him to be the Creator of the heavens and the earth, and thus shows His claim to reverence and worship above all others. When the Sabbath was changed by the papal power, from the seventh day to Sunday, the first day of the week, then the seal was taken from the law. The disciples of Jeaus are called upon to restore it by exalting the Sabbath of the fourth commandment, which is the seventh day, to its rightful position as the Creator's memorial and the sign of his authority.

The Seventh-day Adventists will hold services in the tent every evening this week.

Y.W.C.A. GOSPEL MERTING.

Y.W.C.A. GOSPEL MEETING. The Gospel meeting of the Y.W.C.A. at the association rooms, No. 107 North Spring street, yesterday afternoon, was opened by singing "The Child of the King." Miss Anna B. Douglas presided at the plano. Miss Morse read from Psalms lxii, 1-8 and lxiii, 1-4. Prayer was offered by Miss C. M. Haiberson.

ixiii, 1-4. Prayer was onered by M. Haiberson. The secretary of the association, Miss Morse, led the meeting, and took for her aubject, "Listening for the King's Velexithes cripture reading was from II Samuel fourteenth chapter. In the eighteenth verse occurs the passage, "Let my Lord the King now speak." Miss. Morse said are we not apt to think more of speaking to the King than of the King speaking to us? not go so hastily out from an audience with Him? How can we expect to have His Him? How can we expect to have His gracious response unless we wait and listen for it? If Mary had talked all the time to the Lord Jesus when she est at His feet she would not have "heard His Word." Miss Morse concluded with the admonition that "we pray not less but listen more. Having said our cause unto the King then patiently wait and find that He has many things to say unto us."

Miss Morse will leave, today for Long Beach where she will spend the week. Dr. Campbell Indorsed by SIMPSON TABERNACLE. At Simpson tabernacle last evening Staff Captain Cox of the Salvation Army delivered an address on "114 Deg. Before Sunrise," relating her adventures while working in India. In spite of the heat the edifice was crowded to their utmost capacity. The meeting was opened by the singing of a few of the army choruses, and a prayer by Capt. Cox. Capt. Emma Harmon of San Francisco then sang a solo, after which Capt. Cox addressed the audience.

mon of San Francisco then sang a solo, after which Capt. Cox addressed the audience.

"The Salvation Army policy," said the speaker, "is, as I have told you here before, to become all things to all men. When we go to France we become Frenchmen, in Germany we are German, and in India we adopt the ways and dress of the natives, living, as they do, in mud huts, walking with bare or blistered feet, over the burning sands and begging our food from door to door. In this way we reach them. They believe in a religion which embodies the idea of sacrifice. I have preached the gospel to the wild mountain tribes on the top of the Himalaya Mountains, without a white face for hundreds of miles around. They are only too glad to listen and when I have ended invariably ask, "Oh, Miss Saht, why, if your people know all this have they not told us of this Christ before?" Ah, Why! People say there is no religion in the world; that there are no longer any heroes. Who are the men and women who have suffered all things on the burning plains of India, who have sacrificed home and friends, who have died alone of the dreadful plague in a strange country, and what have they done it for, if not for Christ's sake? If you who have sacrificed home and friends, who have died alone of the dreadful plague in a strange country, and what have they done it for, if not for Christ's sake? If you cannot suffer for Him, die for Him, as they have done; can you not do your part to spread His blessed word? Oh, can you listen to the hungry ones who cry, 'Come over to us and help us,' and not make some effort to save a dying wor'd? Think of the hundreds who die daily in their darkness, and remember that in the day of judgment it is the sins of omission, not of commission, that will be reckoned up against you. Oh, do not sit in 'idleness, for the fields are white unto barvest, and it is for the glory of His blessed name.'

After Capt. Cox's address a collection was taken and Capt. Harmon gave two solos in Hindoostanee. Capt. Cox was dressed in the Hindoo costume, as were also Capt. Harmon, Staff Capt. McIntyre and several of the army.

Capt. Cox will speak this evening at Trinity Methodist church on South Broadway, subject, "Carrion Birds at Bay." On Tuesday evening in the First Baptist church on South Broadway, subject, "Carrion Birds at Bay."

HOW SUNDAY WAS OBSERVED IN CAMP.

Religious Services Participated in by Both Regiments—The Forces Reviewed in the After-

CAMP SANTA MONICA, Aug. 26 .- (Spe cial Correspondence.) Today has been an easy one for the militla in spite of the intense heat.

Reveille, roll-call and breakfast were reveills, roll-call and breaktast west-purposely delayed one hour beyond the regular time so that the men had until nearly 7 o'clock to sleep, an "exercise" of which a good many were badly in need, they having attended a dance at the can-

This morning Chaplain Aftred S. Clark of the Seventh conducted divine services out of doors, and both regiments attended, the fourteen companies being marched without arms, an charge of their first sergeants, and carrying their stools and camp chairs to the place selected for the service. This was well chosen, being on the western boundary of the Seventh's camp, where a row of large eucalyptus trees afforded ample shafe.

An improvised platform had been arranged and near at hand sat a choir consisting of a score of men singers taken from the ranks. A mandelin, a guttar and a flute took the place of a pipe organ and afforded a good lead for the singing.

After a short service taken from the prayer-book of the Episcopal church, and the singing of "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee," Capt. Clark announced his text: "He thanked God and took courage."—Apis xxviii, 15.

The discourse that followed was one calculated in every way to appeal to the manhood and intelligence of the men assembled, and was listened to attentively.

The speaker dwelt upon the close relation existing between patriotic bravery and religious courage, and remarked that the great need of the day was a more exalted idea of moral courage and a higher type of manhood. The power of personal influence was discussed in a masterly manner, and history drawn upon to furnish such examples as Caesar. Napoleon, "The Iron Duke," and lastly Oliver Cromwell, who used to sing "Old Hundred" with the very men before whom the grandest armies of Europe became as chaff before a whirlwind.

The captain's talk lasted about twenty minutes, and was full of good things for the men, but without being in the least "churchy," or sectarian.

At the close all united in repeating the Lord's Prayer, and the companies were marched back to quarters and dismissed for dinner.

A large number of visitors from the town, as well as from Los Angeles, were present at the service, and all seemed deeply interested.

This afternoon a regimental review was held, the four battalions which constituted the Seventh and Ninth regiments being united into column and thrown into line as one regiment. Col. Schreiber and Lieut.-Col. Berry, with their respective staffs, reviewed the troops, who made a better appearance than on any previous occasion during the encampment. The Ninth Regiment Band was consolidated with the Drum and Bugle Corps of the Seventh, and the whole augmented by the sacidition of the military band from the bathluse. In spite of the "inclemency of the reather," a well-filled grand stand greeted be bicycle boys at Athletic Park yesterday morning to witness the regular weekly meet of the Wheelmen's Training League One or two disappointments were ex perienced in the non-appearance of Jen-kins and the bicycle squad of the police force, but the programme as carried out was highly appreclated.

The first race, a half-mile handicap, spe mings, 50 yards; C. H. Pray, 80 yards took first place, with Allen a close id; time 1:12.

Fritz Lacy and Emil Utbricht were on the scratch in the one-mile handleap, with Allen at 50 yards and Hatten and Miller 75 yards. Won by Allen in 2:28½; Miller 75 yards. Won by Allen in 2:28½; Miller second.

Wong Ngul, a well-known Chinese wheelman of this city, next made his appearance on the track, clad in regulation bicycle bostume, for the purpose of establishing a half-mile Coast record for Chinese riders. He covered the distance in 1:16½, which was a very good performance considering the poor work of his pace-maker.

Thomas McAèer next rode an exhibition ten-miles, with Kitchen, Fox, Lacy and Ubricht as pace-makers. No attempt was made for a record, it being simply a practice heat for the benefit of the pace-makers, who are to pace him for his twenty-five-mile race with Castleman on the 22d of next month, but was a very creditable exhibition mevertheless. The time, 26:59½, was very good considering the delay of a minute, occasioned by the puncture of his front tire in the last half of the seventh mile, and necessitating a change of owheels.

If the seventh mile, and necessitating a hange of wheels.

James Ryan and A. J. Murrietta toed sevarch for a one bundred-yard dash, thich resulted in a dead heat in 11½ econds. Another trial saw Ryan win saily in 11 seconds dat.

This concluding the performance, the thietes retired to the rear of the grand tand where they did ample justice to a ragonload of watermerons.

The ball game at Athletic Park yester-ay was won by the Keatings by a score 15 to 5. The game was well played aroughout. Von Horn and Lukeman did be battery work for the Keatings and layed well. The Athletics tried three tohers, but without success.

"A small-sized typographical error is causing Delegate John W. Mitchell of Los Angeles more trouble than all the trades, combinations, proxies and candidates of the Democratic Convention.

"Mitchell had a fight in the Palace Hotel grillroom yesterday morning with Tom Gibbon, the attorney for the Terminal road in the City of Angels, and won it in one round. Mitchell only weighs 120 pounds and stands 5 ft. 6 in. in height, while his opponent weighed 155 pounds and stands a good 5 ft. 9 in; consequently Mitchell was proud of his conquest, and until last night his vest did not fit him when he swelled out his chest telling about it. But pride goeth before a fall, and about 11 c'clock last night, while the convention was in full blast, a Chronicle reporter catled Mitchell out into an antercom and completely knocked him out without a blow being struck. Not only was the little man from Los Angeles robbed of all the glory of his achievement of the morning, but he was put upon the defensive, and called in his aid all the dos Angeles delegation.

"The flight was reported by an evening

ing, but he was put upon the defensive, and called in his aid eil the d.os Angeles, delegation.

"The fight was reported by an evening paper giving Mitchell duescredit. for winning it in one round, but in-giving the details the typographical error was made. The evening paper said: Mitchell bit Gibbon in the face, etc.

"The dilpping from the paper was shown Mitchell, who was called out from his delegation to read it. He was impatient to get back, and, glancing over the article, said: "That is correct, sir. I do not care to add to it," and he started away.

"But, Mr. Mitchell," queried the reporter, will you tell me just one thing? How did you happen to bite Mr. Gibbon in the face?

"What's that? Bite Gibbon? That's a lie, sir; a lie. Who says that I bit Gibbon?

"Why, you said that the newspaper

"". Why, you said that the newspaper cipping I showed you gave a correct account of the fight, and it distinctly states you bit Gibbon in the face."
"Let me see it; let me see it, said Mitchell, and when he read the sentence mentioned he made a rush for the Los Angeles delegation. He returned with all the members of that body who know any thing, about the wiight, and they all bore out Mr. Mitchell's statement that he had bitten nobody.
"Then Mischell wanted to talk, and he told the story of the grillroom battle.

out Mr. Mitchell's statement that he had bitten nobody.

"Then Mischell wanted to talk, and he told the story of the grillroom battle, which was afterward corroborated by the eye witnesses.

"About' 9 o'clock this morning I was at breakfast with Col. Olin Wellborn of Los Angeles in the grillroom at the Palace. Near by at a table was Tom Gibbon and Collector of the Port Gaffey, also of our city. There had been bad blood between Gibbon and me for some little time, and when he and Gaffey came down here to interfere in the convention I telegraphed back to the Los Angeles Herald some disagreeable things about them. Gibbon had the Heraki in which one of the articles I had inapired was printed. He got up from his table and, walking over to Col. Weliborn, said: 'Did you read the, colonel? I would like to know the our that inspired that article. Read it,' and then turned away. I jumped to my feet and said: 'Hold on, there. Come here, Gibbon; I am the man that inspired that article.

"I knew what he wanted. He wanted to say when he got back to Los Angeles that he had said to my face that the man who had crittelsed him was a cur and that I had not resented it. I determined to resent the language, even if I got whipped.

"Gibbon came back toward me and said: 'You inspired that article, did you?' at the same time grabbing me by the lapel of my coat. I replied, 'Let go of my coat.' He paid no attention, and I again said, 'Let go of my coat.' He would not do it and I hit him in the face. He staggered back and I got his head under my arm and kept punching away. Then we wrestled and fell to the floor, I on top, and I punched him some more until the waiters pulled us spart. I did not bite him and I will see about that. I will see about that,' and away Mitchell went to cast a vote for a candidate. Col. Welborn bore out Mitchell's statement of the fracas, as did the waiters in the cafe, who were on duty at the time.

A BURGLAR SHOT.

The Brave Act of a Nervy Servant Girl.

She Intercepts a Housebreaker and Fires a Bullet into His Brain.

The Residence of Frank Lecouvreus on South Main Street the Scene of the Shooting-The Burglar Badly Wounded.

At 1:05 o'clock this morning Office Stephenson walked into the police station in charge of a youthful-appearing for burglary. The Mexican was bleeding from a wound over his left eye, from which the blood flowed in a tiny stream leaving a red trail along the sidewalk. It took but a few moments for the officer to explain that the hole in the Mexican's head was caused by a bullet, and, while the reporters were anticipating a long story of attempted murder, the policeman continued, and stated that the Mexican was a burglar, who had attempted to No. 651 South Main street, and had been shot while forcing an entrance. - A plucky servant girl, whose name is Anna Cull, did the shooting, and to her courage is due the prompt apprehension of the miscreant.

The room occupied by the servant girl is located on the side of the house, and it is lighted by a window which is built quite high above the ground. Last night Anna retired as usual and went to sleep. She was not able to rest very well on account of the heat, and just before the clock struck 1 she thought she heard a noise. Listening intently she was soon convinced that some one was at work at the window; and she prepared for action. Having a loaded 32-caliber revolver near at hand, and she prepared for action. Having a loaded 32-caliber revolver near at hand, she selzed the weapon and getting out of bed crept over toward the window. A man's hands could there be plainly seen fumbling with the sash, which he had pushed up very cautiously. The window being high from the ground prevented the burglar from standing abreast of it, and not until he had made an opening did he attempt to look into the room. Meanwhile the servant girl, with wonderful merve, was calmly waiting for his body to appear before her leveled revolver. In a very short time a black head was thrust into view and Anna, taking careful aim, pulled the strager of her revolver. The ballet took effect over the left eve, passing into the brain and lodging at the back of the skull. When the shot was fired the burglar fell back with a moan too badly wounded to try to make his escape. The report of the pistol aroused the household and help came immediately. Officer Stephenson was patroling his beat near by and he ran to the house with all possible haste and took "charge of the man.

The fellow had prepared himself well mear by and he ran to the house with all possible haste and took charge of the man.

The fellow had prepared himself well for the night's work, for pieces of carpet were tied to his shoes and a bottle of chloroform and a sponge were found in his pockets. He had also a heavy piece of hoop wire, which he had evidently intended to use to undo the screen fasterings, and, altogether, he had intended to make a lucrative haul, when his career of depredation was brought to a summary close.

The officer took the man to the Receiving Hospital and summoned Dr. Bryant, who had just left the station, after attending other patients. The police surgeon at first thought that, perhaps, the wound was only a slight one, but upon inserting his probe in the hole found that the bullet had penetrated through the skull. The Mexican gave the name of Jesus Ledsma, but, beyond vouchsafing this information, refused to talk. His wound was considered a very serious one, and Dr. MacCowan was sent for to assist the regular surgeon in trephining the skull. It is thought that his chances for recovery are rather doubtful, and his experience may prove a wholesome example to other bold housebreakers.

A SHOW OF HONESTY.

How a Merchant Got a Start in (Chicago Herald:) "You wish to know how I got my start in Chicago, eh? Weil, I don't mind telling you about it now, al-though you may not indorse the means I adopted."

riere the merchant prime laughed beartily, withdrawing his cigar for the purpose. After a moment or two he resumed:

"I had come here from the country, a gawky farmer boy, ignorant of the ways of the world and disposed to regard every city chap as a sharper. Before leaving home I had a settlement with my guardian, who turned over to me $300 in cash—all the possessions I had in the world.

"The distress of the panic of 1857 had not passed and things were swfully dull here. After securing a modest boarding-house I applied myself with diligence to the seeking of employment, in the meantime assiduously studying bookheeping every evening. The tweaty-one years of my life had been spent upon the farm, and I was utterly ignorant of all business methods. Hence I sought humble work, being wilking to begin at the lowest rung of the ladder. But, somehow, I didn't catch on. I must have been what is vulgarly called an 'ornery' chap—uncouth in speech, vulgar in manner, and easily abashed. Still, I persevered, offering myself as a phrter, chadman, day laborer, gardner, helping in grocery stores, in short any kind of work that demanded muscle without too much experience. Once in a while I get a job of sawing wood, cutting grass and tending garden, but I spent far more than I earned, although I lived very economically. Month after month passed in this way until nearly one-half of my capital was exhausted.

"My necessities led me to much cogitation, and, having made rapid progress in knowledge of good English, I finally concluded to aspire to something higher. A prerequisite to this step was the doffing of my old jeans suit which had become decidedly seedy. The tailor's bill made a big inroad upon my diminishing capital, and the thought of it set my teeth on edge. Out I went day after day among the merchants, offering my services as a bookkeeper, accountant, shipping clerk, or salesman, but I found no takers. The marturaly of a sanguine temperament, but six months of enforced idleness to one who loves work are enough to becloud t my honor would kill me. My only wish is that this money may reach its owner. You will be sure to find him."

"Mr. Davis became interested."

"Is there any way of identifying himany name or address in the package?"

"I think not, sir," I replied, but the bills, as you will see, are done up in a peculiar red cloth, debeige, I think, it is called, and if you would merely advertise the fact that a sum of money had been found and required the applicant to name the amount and the envelope covering it, you could not possibly mistake."

"My importunity finally overcame his objections and he book my address, and, after pronouncing me a 'sterling honest fellow,' bade me come around in the after pronouncing me a 'sterling honest fellow,' bade me come around in the morning.

"Well, that was my start in life. Mr. Davis greeted me, when I returned in the morning, most effusively.

"I've been thinking over that matter, and confess that I admire your honesty. There's no reason in the world why you shouldn't have kept that money. Many men who are far better off than you would have done so.'

"He ended by offering me a place behind one of the counters at $6 a week, and five years later I was his partner.

"Oh, the money! A number of parties answered the advertisement, but they couldn't prove up, you see, for the best of all reasons. The money was my own, and Mr. Davis finafly returned it to me. I ran not the slightest risk, and was satisfied that the act would bring me under the favorable notice of Mr. Davis.

"Yes, there was deception in it, and I am not saying that it was commendable. But I did no one an injury, and it was the groundwork of my present comfortable fortune. Still, I would not advise any other young man to go and do like-wise."

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

IS OUR SENSE OF SMELL DYING

OUT.

Increasing the Efficiency of the Modern Soldier - A Novel Rubber Suit-Leaven as Endder.

NEW YORK, July 28, 1894.—(Special Correspondence.) Edward Dilion thinks we do not get half the good we might out of our houses, and he holds that we are quietly letting drop, through disuse, one of the few senses we actually have. While the other sanges are cultivated to the the other senses are cultivated to the highest degree, by way of increasing the individual pleasure of living, the sense of individual pleasure of riving, the sense or smell is kept in abeyance. The delights to be derived from smell are unheeded, and we are careful only to avoid the unpleasantness of diagreeable odors. Our noses are, in fact, not so much instru-ments of enjoyment as nulsance in-spectors. In discussing the possibilities of developing the sense of smell, Mr. Dillon ments of enjoyment as nuisance inspectors. In discussing the possibilities of developing the sense of smeil, Mr. Dillon recalls the story of a Breton peasant, who invented an "art of perfumes," while inhaling the scents of the flowers of his native fields. Odors seemed to him to unfold themselves in tharmonious relation, and he went to Paris with a perfume box of many compartments, to give a "concert of perfumes." But they took him for a madman, and he went back and died in obscurity. In Japan the sense of smell is trained to an exceptional point. The Japanese have a beautiful game, the point of which, is the selection and classification of various fragrant woods. A singular instance of the way in which the offactory nerves can be temporarily stimulated is the experience of visitors to the Kentucky Cave. On coming out of the cave their nerves of smell are so sensitive that trees, animals and indivinuals have to them distinct and characteristic odors, and this susceptibility continues for some hours. In the industrial world there is probably no more striking exemplification of what the nose can be educated up to than the duties of the "rum smeller." In Jamalca, where the finest rums in the world are made, the rum seller is a personage of importance. He visits the various sugar estates for the purpose of securing the best rums for his employer, the European buyer. As he passes along between the rows of puncheons in the state's rum store, the "distiller" draws a small quantity of the contents from each cask. About a table-spoonful is thrown into a tumbler and "flashed" around by a deft turn of the wrist of the smeller, who forthwith thrusts his nose into the glass and inhales the aroma of the spirit. As the result of this test, he makes a bid for the entire crop of rum, which, in many cases, is worth tens of thousands of dollars. An expert rum seller will instantly price a rum by his nose alone, alone to a remarkable extent. As a trick, the rum of two different estates—each estate has its own flavor—have been mixe

LEAVES AS FODDER. LEAVES AS FODDER.

About a year ago M. Girard created great interest in agricultural circles by his strenuous advocacy of tree leaves as cattle food. He field that the leaves of trees, as compared with other fodders, showed a high nourishing ratio, whether fresh or dried, and that certain tree leaves are not surpassed as fodder by the products of natural prairies or pasture dands. European farmers, among whom the French have taken the lead, have been systematically testing M. Girard's ideas by placing their cattle on a treet-leaf, diet. The results are said to be most encouraging. The leaves after being picked are spread on the barn floor to the depth of three or four inches, and are turned once a day. The process of drying takes from three to five days, according to the weather, and when dried the leaves are piled up ready for use. It is found advisable to prepare each day's supply twenty-four hours beforehand, when a small quantity of chopped turnips is mixed with the leaves, and the whole is left to ferment. Mitch cows thrive surprisingly on this fodder. The degree of nutrition afforded by different trees wartes considerably; in fact, some treos were entirely rejected. The final selection of the French farmers was narrowed down to the leaves of five trees, the hazele aspen, ash, elm and willow.

A RAILWAY CAR CUSHION CLEANER. About a year ago M. Girard created great A RAILWAY CAR CUSHION CLEANER.

The French have brought carpet-cleaning machinery to a high state of efficiency. One of their latest modules not only bests the curpets of railway cars but also brushes the cushions while drawing off the dust. With this machine operated by one man, 350 carpets or cushions can be cleaned in an ordinary working day. The machine consists essentially of a strong frame containing an endless band, besters revolving brushes, exhaust fans and suction pipes. The carpets are attached to the endless band, the revolution of which brings them under the influence of the besters. These consist of twelve stout leather straps fixed on the iron arms of a horizontally revolving drum. Meanwhile the cushion is being cleaned by the backward and forward metion of the table on which it is placed while the contact with cylindrical brushes. The dust raised by the beaters and brushes is drawn by the fan into the galvanized iron pipes and discharged by the current of air outside the building.

EFFICIENCY OF THE MODERN SOL DIER.

Great attention is being paid by ropean military authorities to methods of facilitating the passage of rivers by cav-airy. For this purpose a bag, which has been designed by a Russian officer, is expected to be of immense service. It is been designed by a Russian officer, is expected to be of immense service. It is made of waterproof canvas, weighs only two and one-half pounds and is 4½ ft. long, by 2½ ft. broad. This bag will hold the uniform, accourtements and saddlery of a trooper and will float buoyantly with them. It is to be employed by the Russian army for independent cavalry operations and will greatly increase the rapidity of making raids into the enemy's territory. During the coming military maneuvers of the Prussian army several notable innovations will be made. Experiments will be tried with a new folding boat, which has been ordered from England for the cavalry. It is to be used by the leading squadron of every cavalry regiment for the crossing of rivers and canals while reconnoitering and covering the advance of the main body. Several battalions of infantry will be furnished, as an experiment, with a new field kit of reduced weight, and the use of bicycles for the transmission of orders and the keeping up of communications in the field will be tested thoroughly, with the ultimate vitiw of relieving the cavalry of much of the work they have hitherto been called upon to do in that connection. The tendency of modern war training is to throw upon the cavalry many duties that formerly devolved upon the engineers, and the coming meeting of the German army will probably mark a new cra in the history of military tactics. A BICYCLE FOR ONE-LEGGED RIDERS

A safety bicycle has been invanted for one-legged riders. It is propelled either entirely by the hand or in conjunction with podai-driving. The usual handle-bar is bent so far around as to virtually make one handle. This handle has an up and down motion, which, by means of cranks, causes the revocution of a toothed wheel, fixed about half way between the handle-bar and the axle of the front wheel. The driving of this wheel is effected by means of a chain running around the toothed wheel on the hub of the front wheel, smilar to that on the hind wheel of the ordinary safety.

PRESERVING BOOKS IN THE TROPICS. A safety bicycle has been invented for PRESERVING BOOKS IN THE TROPICS. The task of the librarian in hot climates is beset with anxiety. In addition to the cosmopolitan book-magot, which drills pin-holes through and through the cover and body of a book, and often completely disintegrates it, he has to fight various kinds of ants and cockroaches. The white ant, for instance, devours the books wholesale, but can generally be thwarted by sale, but can generally be thwarted by placing the shelves upon stone insulators. The cockroach is of less importance, as it merely defaces the bindings. The usual protective treatment is to district the books by pouring a few teaspoonfuls of refined mineral naphths, or benzine, into the crevices of the binding, and then shutting up the volume for a few days in a closefitting box to prevent the escape of the fumes. If the books are subsequently sponged over lightly with the finest kerosene oil, which is rubbed with a cloth before it has had time to penetrate into the binding, they are rendered distasteful to insects without causing serious injury. The oder of the kerosene is objectionable, insects without causing serious injury. The odor of the kerosene is objectionable, but comparative immunity from insect attack is secured. Dr. George King reports favorably on an improved method, which consists in brushing the books over with a saturated solution of corrosive sublimate, made by constantly keeping a few lumps of the poison at 'he bottom of a jar of alcohol (the ordinary mothylated spirit) so that the maximum amount may be absorbed. It is needless to state that the poison must be very carefully handled. In the Indian Museum Library the amount of damage by insects is greatly reduced by keeping the books in close-fitting glass cases, on the shelves of which are placed a few ounces of naphthaline. As an additional precaution the paste used in binding the Indian Museum books is poisoned by adding about half an ounce of sulphate of copper to each pound of paste. Books already infested are shut up for four or five days in an air-tight box of losse naphthaline, with as much of this substance as possible between the leaves: This treatment effectually disposes of even the 'duck ant,' one of the most destructive pests of the tropics. If this insect once enters a book, he rapidly turns every page into the most elaborate lacework.

MYSTERIOUS MARS.

THE LATEST NEWS OF THE BRIGHT PLANET.

An Extraordinary Light Seen Be-yond the Terminator—The Discoveries of M. Perrotin-Dr. Swift's Observations.

On the 28th of July, 1894, M. Perrotin rector of the great observatory at Nice, elegraphed the following highly important message to Dr. Krueger, in charge of the central astromical burea at Klei, Ger-many: "Luminous projection in the south region of the terminator of Mars, observed

Mt. Hamilton. The great astronomer and his sharp-sighted assistant, peering through the powerful glass, have detected a hitherto unnoted luminous spot projecting from the terminator of Mars. What is the significance of this discovery?

By referring to the diagram it will be seen that Mars presented a gibbous phase on the 28th of July. In other words its disk, or filuminated surface, was slightly oval—something like the moon a few days before it is full—its left border not being illuminated by the sun. If we complete the circle, as in the cut, there will be a dark crescent. Now it was within this dark crescent that the strange light was seen; the bright edge of the terminator, at a point mear the upper or south polar snow cap, was extended into the dark or unilluminated area, as seen at figure 3 in the cut.

What produced this strange light?

What produced this strange light?

"Nature" intimates that the luminosity might be produced by one of the following first—Aurora. The position of the light near the south pole suggests the possibility of that origin. But if due to an aurora, the phenomenon must be far more intense than any to which we are accustomed on this planet to be visible across 60,000,000 miles of space even in our most powerful telescopes.

Second—A range of snow-capped mountains. If very high these might be visible beyond the line of the terminator, but if so the query will arise, "Why have they not been observed before?"

beyond the line of the terminator, but he so the query will arise, "Why have they not been observed before?"

Third—Forest fires. In regard to forest fires, "Nature" remarks: "It is worth while pointing out that forest fires may be the first distinctive thing observed on either planet from the other besides the fixed surface markings."

The surface markings in the cut are roughly copied from a sketch taken during the opposition of September, 1892. It may be as well to remark that no two sketches of the planet, made either oy the same or different astronomers, are precisely alike, and they are often totally unlike. These varying phases may arise from the prevalence of clouds and fogs drifting over the surface and obscuring the continental and oceanic outlines. An astronomer upon the planet Venus observing the surface markings of the earth, would see the outlines of continents and seas constantly arkings of the earth, would see the outnes of continents and seas constantly regular shape, sometimes aweeping over rge areas, and at other times mysterisisy forming and dissipating.

Dr. Lewis Swift, now of the Lowe Obrevatory, was that season conducting his servations at Rochester, and he rearked in an article on Mars published in tronomy, October, 1892: "If have obrved in nearly all my studies of this

On account of its high satistude, the absence of clouds, and the clearness of the atmosphere at the Lowe Observatory. Dr. Swift will view the planet under much more favorable conditions at the approaching opposition of October. 1894.

HE WANTED TO DIE.

"PROF." SWEENEY'S ATTEMPT AT SELF-DESTRUCTION.

Family Troubles the Cause of His Act—He Had a Close Call, but Will Recover.

Brief mention was made in The Times yesterday morning of the attempted sui-cide of "Prof." Sweeney, who has for some time past been posing as an instructor of music and mathematics and a few other allied subjects. The old man was found by Officer Henderson about 2 o'clock yesterday morning lying on the sidewalk at the Plaza in a pool of blood. A large-sized ink-eraser with a keen blade was found lying by his side, and it was concluded that he had attempted to blade was found lying by his side, and it was concluded that he had attempted to commit suicide by opening the artery in his arm with that instrument. The wound was bandaged up and the man removed to the Receiving Hospital as quickly as possible, while Police Surgeon Bryant attended to his injuries. The man had written a statement asking that the eraser be returned to room No. 31, Russ House, where the got it.

He also left a dying statement explaining why he attempted to take his life which is in part as follows:

"Please do not allow the papers to vildify my name. You know not who I am only by name, therefore, please pay no attention to scoffers. Family troubles have brought me to this. I respect Los Angeles, at least all her citizens. I had made a great deal of money here. I only died of a broken heart. Get San Diego papers to copy. Give my regards to Capt. Ainsworth, also to Chief Glass; neither will see my character villified. I carry a great deal of high learning to the grave, which, if I had an opportunity, would be a credit to the rising generation. Excuse this scribble—you know how I feel.

E. SWEENEY.

"P.S.—Put on my collar and the before taking me out of here. Look for nothing else but what you find here—all is put away. I put on these clothes for this purpose.

E. S."

The old man remained in the Receiving Hospital all day yesterday, and is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. He is very weak from isas of blood, but it is now believed that he will recover with careful treatment.

Saturday's storm in the valley drove many to the heights of the Slerra Madre, where, after a slight shower in the early morning, just enough to lay the dust, the air was cool and dry. Seldom do Southern Californians enjoy the opportunity of seeing a thunder storm rage all around them, and yet themselves be in no way inconvenienced. This condition prevailed on Echo Mountain on Saturday, for the clouds were below and all about us, but the mountain was dry as could be wished.

SANTA MONICA.

A Great Crowd—Coming Primaries— Local Notes.

Local Notes.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 26.—(Special Correspondence.) Today was in a measure a repetition of yesterday as to weather, and it brought to the beach an immense crowd of people. They literally swarmed in and over the bath-houses and beach, and they kept the trail hot that led from the depots and shore to the camping-grounds of the N.G.C. Just as many people bathed as the combined capacity of all the bath-houses could by any possibility furnish suits and dressing-rooms for. The over-crowding business began with the first trains in, and continued until a late hour in the afternoon. A pleasant breeze came in off the water all day, and this with an umbrella, made one perfectly comportable. No observing person could fail to note today that Santa Monica is present to the property of the continuity the leading resort for Angelsanos, and the denizens of her sister towns along the foothills.

The steamer Mexico came across the bay should gate the country of the same was the town and the town of the same across the bay should gate the country of the same manuels of the country of the same ways and the denizens of her sister towns along the foothills.

the Public Schools.

POMONA, Aug. 26.—(Special Correspondence.) The public schools are to be reopened September 17, with twenty-three of the twenty-four rooms in the various school buildings—and probably all twenty-four occupied— and looked over and managed by twenty-seven, possibly twenty-eight, teachers, as it is probable that a kindergarten will be established in the southeast primary building.

teachers at the beginning of the fall session of 189-85.

This number of rooms and teachers ought to accomodate in good shape all the children within Pomona who will be likely to attend he public schools—as the Pomona and Lordsburg colleges will necessarily draw from the more advanced young people both in years and studies; but there will not, after sil, be by any means anything like a surolus of accommodations.

There is already worked up in this community much interest in the approaching Republican precinct cancus, to be held Tuesday evening the 28th inst., at the four places previously announced in these columns, and the result will probably be that the full local strength of the party now at home will turn out on the occasion.

The city fathers, notwithstanding the slight breezes new visiting this section from the torrid or some other shamefully hot region, will meet on Tuesday night.

Speaking of yields in the matter of fruit in this locality, it would perhaps amane some Bastern visitor to say that H. A. Ross zathered from his five-acre apticot orchard the tone of apricots were picked this season the modest quantity of sixty-seven tons; while from Mrs. Edgar's eight-acre orchard the tone of apricots were picked this season the modest quantity of sixty-seven tons; while from Srs. Edgar's eight-acre orchard the tone of apricots were picked this season the modest quantity of sixty-seven tons; while from this college. The Kinglesy tract deciduous fruit growers, none of them think, will have something near fifty of sixty tone each of peaches and prunes.

some of them think, will have something near fifty of sixty tons each of peaches and ornnes.

The canning company is running its machinery today (Sunday) and also having some dried fruit sacked, in order that no loss may ensue from fruit already on hand.

The consumption of ice during the month of July in Pomona was over 105,000 pounds. It has threatened rain more or less throughout the day, but as yet none has fallen in this immediate vicinity.

The melon crop in this vicinity has turned out to be much larger than was, at first estimated, and, as a rule, the quality of the later growth is excellent. In fact, it may be that the experience and observation, of this year will convince ranchers that it is not best to use water too abundantly and carelessly in irrigating if the best results in the matter of favor, quality, etc., are desired. Of course, there must be a sumiciency to insure proper growth and size; but overdot this, and the chances are that the fruit will be too watery and necessarily tasteless.

There were too many Pomonans that left this morning via the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific roads for Santa Monica and other coast resorts to be enumerated in the space alloted for these items; suffice it to say this there were many of both alves, and that they seemed "bent on a good time."

While George O. SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

The County Division Fight-Notes and Personals.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 26.-There is SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 26.—There is very little being said in this city regarding county division, but in the upper end of the county it is the absorbing topic. The anti-divisionists here have fallen into a sort of apathy on the subject, which is likely to be turned to account by the agitators of the question in other vections. The divisionists, however, being given appenty of swing, are making moves which are likely to prove disastrous to the project, on account of sectional jealousy in regard to the county seat. Lompoc divisionists are working for representatives of their cause who will recommend leaving the location of the county seat to a vote of the people, once the county is divided; while those in Santa Ynez, Santa Maria, Guadaloupe, Los Alamos and other points in that vicinity insist on Los Alamos or nothing. The proposed new county seat is already divided against itself, and if let sione will probably defeat its own cause. There is very little opposition here from the fact that people generally have come to the conclusion that division is inevitable, and they say "the sooner the better."

The election yesterday was a decided victory for public-spirited citizens, and proves conclusively that educational and sanitary improvements are valued at their proper worth by the great majority of the citizens. The election was held to decide on issuing bonds in the sum of $8000 to build a new schoolhouse, to make necessary improvements on the old ones and regulate the sanitary conditions of the same. The attendance at the city schools has been rapidly increasing each year, and in some of the schools the rooms are so crowded as as to be dangerous to health. A few of the chronic kickers against improvements spent the day yesterday trying to defeat the proposition, but succeeded in getting only forty-four opposing votes out of a total 353 polled.

SHAKY SUIT CLUBS.

A General Tendency to Collapse in the Schemes.

(San Francisco Post:) The tailors of the city are inclined to smile a little just now over the general collapse that seems to be overtaking what may be denominated as the "suit-club industry." These plausible schemes, for their name has been legion in and about the city, have caught a good many people since they were first placed before the public, and not a few persons have had cause to regret that they in-engineering 'he suit-club schemes were at-tractive enough. A club of forty men was tractive enough. A club of loty then was to be formed, each member to pay in $1 a week. Every week there was a "draw ing" for a suit supposed to be worth $40. That subscriber who held the lucky number obtained the suit, even if he had only paid a single $1 assessment. Then he dropped out of the club and his place was taken by some one else. The unlucky pald a single of the club and his place was taken by some one else. The unlucky members were those who did not win until they had paid numerous assessments. In any case, however, they would obtain a suit after making forty payments. So they would not be out any thing after all. Such was the statement of the promoters of the schemes. But somehow a great deal of dissatisfaction began to arise. It was noted that those who were in the drawings after paying only a single assessment or two were usually men prominent in public life, or who were known to have an extensive acquaintance. Such as these seemed remarkably successful at the drawings.

or second drawing it they would only invest.

But there were other complaints, even from among the winners. It transpired that the $40 suits were in many cases rather poor $15 "layouts." In some instances the winners were persuaded to pay a few dollars additional to secure a "highly superior quality of cloth." But the highly superior quality did not keep the coats from coming to pieces.

But finally worse things yet began to happen. One by one the men behind the suit-club schemes began to fail. Some field the city and the State. Others simply sought refuge in the bankruptcy court. But in any case the result of it sil has been to cast a thick pall of gloom over the suit-club industry.

DEATH RECORD.

UNDER THE DUMMY.

A. C. BUTLER IS STRUCK BY A CABLE TRAIN.

The Man Has a Leg Broken, but Appears Anxious That His Identity Be Not Revealed-Evidently Intoxicated.

A cable train to which was attached car No. 73, ran into a man at the corner of First and Spring streets last night shortly after 11 o'clock. The train was westfter 11 o'clock. The train was west-ound and started to round the corner on the east side division with a clear track in front of it. Just as the center of the curve was reached a man was seen to wander in an aimless way toward the middle of the street. The gripman rang the warning gong and thought that the man centainly would stop and allow the cars to pass before attempting to make the crossing. The fellow appeared to be under the influence of liquor, however, and stepped directly in front of the rapidlymoving dummy. The cable was droppe and the brakes were applied instancy, by before the train came to a standstill the before the train came to a standstill the man was underneath the dummy, a wheel of which passed over his left leg, breaking it above the knee and cutting a deep gash just below this spot. The weight of the heavy car also pressed closely upon his breast and it was mecasary to lift the dummy before his body could be extricated. The patro! wagon was summoned and the wounded man was conveyed to the Rewounded man was conveyed to the Re-ceiving Hospital. He seemed cheerful enough when laid upon the operating table and insisted upon being told whether or not be was seriously injured.

Police Surgeon Bryant and Dr. Ainsworth were called to attend him, and after a short examination they found that the man's injuries were not necessarily fatal. When Dr. Ainsworth asked the man what his name was he replied, "Smith," but afterward changed this to A. C. Butler. Before replying to the questions however. Before replying to the questions, however, he looked about and wanted to know whether there were any reporters present. Upon being assured that there were not by the physician, notwithstanding the fact that several eager newspaper men stood close beside him, he said that als name was A. C. Butler, and that he had but lately arrived in this city from Cleveland. C. He gave his residence as 233 West Fifth street. Jaller Hill started to take possession of the money and articles in the injured man's pockets, when Butler stopped him and wanted to know what the officer was doing. He reemed very much concerned about revealing his identity and said to the policeman in year emitty. tity, and said to the policeman in very emphatic tones, "Don't you dare read any of my papers."

The physicians set Butler's broken leg and sewed up the gashes on his face, and

Old "Dr." Sweeney, the man who attempted suicide on Saturday evening, occupied a cot close to the operating table, and gazed in a curious and interested fashion at the doctors while they worked on the mangled body of Butler. The latter was evidently intoxicated when he walked in front of the cable train consequently. in front of the cable train, consequently no blame is attached to either the gripman

Electric Bullet-finder.

Electric Bullet-finder.

The electric bullet-finder or probe, an invention of Dr. John H. Girdner of New York consists of an ordinary metal probe and an extra bulls of the same metal that the probe is made of. Inasmuch as there is no battery connected with the appractus, it may puzzle even an electrician to discover wherein the electrical element lies, says the Boston Transcript. Just here is where the instrument assumes its truly zelentific aspect, for its invention proves that there is a definite quantity of electricity in the battery which supplies the current. Dr. Girdner had tried for years to devise some surer means of locating bullets than was possible with the ordinary probe. Some years ago somsbody had invented an electric bullet probe which depended on a battery cell to supply the current. But the trouble was that as soon as the end of the probe was inserted in the flesh an electric circuit would be established through the flesh sheelf and the electric bell would ring. So it was, not known whether a bullet had been touched or not. One night it occurred to Dr. Girdner that the body itself might contain enough of a current to operate a bell or a telephone receiver is held to the surgeon's ear, and the probe in the hole made by the bullet. The bullet in the mouth and the probe are made of the same metal, copper being preferred; and because they are the same on manifestation is heard in the telephone. But as soon as the leaden bullet is touched it brings anyther metal, into same no manifestation is heard in the tele-phone. But as soon as the leaden bullet is touched, it brings another metal into the circuit. The human body then imthe circuit. The human body then im mediately becomes one immense cell, which generates a current strong enough operate the telephone, so that as scon the bullet is touched a click is heard in the telephone and the location of the bulthe telephone and the location of let is established beyond a doubt.

Green Plums for Olives.

(Bingham (N. Y.,) Call:) Representative of pickling, curing and preserving-houses of New York and other cities are making their annual visits to the fruit-growing districts of the State, contracting for plums, peaches, pears and other small fruits. The particular fruit now being purchased is green plums. This fruit is, now approaching its size and appearance when it is especially desired by pickling establishments, from which it is turned out on the market as the olive—either French or Italian, as the demand may be. John F. White of Leicester, N.Y., has 7000 plum trees in his orchard. He has sold the entire product, between 15,000 and 20,000 bushels, to olive picklers. The extent of this home-grown olive business may be imagined when it is known that Mr. White's orchard provides only a small portion of the green plums that are sold for olive pickling by the fruit-growers of this part of the State.
